UPHOLD MR. MATHESON'S IDEAS

Public Is Generally Interested In The Outcome Of Tomorrow's Contest For Mayor And City Officers.

Editor of the Gazette: Permit one of your readers to correct some of the unfair and misleading statements made in the Recorder Sunday morning. The statements refer to Mr.
Badger, the ward candidates, and, particularly, to Mr. Matheson, as a candidate for mayor.

The ordinance as to comptroller related to the adoption of the whole of the Wisconsin statutes, pertaining to comptroller for city of this size, instead of a part, as we now have it.
Not one word was said about a $1,- 500.00 salary, or any other salary.
There was nothing offered as a salary.
If the proposed action with reference to comptroller had been sanctioned by the council it would have put the matter in such condition that a comptroller could have been ordered if deemed advisable. But it would have taken some action subsequent and in addition to the proposed ordinance.

Voting Machine

The voting machine misrepresentation has been already explained in your columns. These machines will pay for themselves in a few years from savings effected at elections.
Mr. Matheson and the other members of the Finance Committee recommended two machines only, in order that they might first be tried, and the expense distributed over two or three years, if others were purchased.
But the majority of the Council thought otherwise, and insisted on five instead of the two recommended by the Finance Committee. The vote was seven to three; whom was seven to three; seven members voting in favor of the five machines, and three, one of whom was Mr.
Matheson, voting against the purchase of the five.

The price of each machine was $600.00. The machine purchased by the city, which included a number of improvements and devices not on other machines, old and out of date, has never been sold to anyone, or

FIFTY MINERS ARE CAUGHT IN THE MINES AT ZIEGLER

Explosion of Gas May Result In The Death Of

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Ziegler, Ill., April 3.—An explosion of gas occurred at Leiters mine this morning at 6:45, just after the men had been lowered. At least fifty men are entombed and small hopes are entertained of any being alive. The force of the explosion threw timbers, railroad ties and debris two hundred feet in the air. The earth for rods is cracked and smoke and flames rushed from the shaft through the breakers' house. Only one man in the air shaft escaped. The crowd is kept back from the mouth of the shaft by the extreme heat.

of dead between fifty and sixty. Of injured they will probably die. At 11

Return From Long Scout.

With Gen. Kuroki's Army in the Field, April 3.—Two detachments of Japanese cavalry have returned to the army after the most extensive and dangerous scouting exploit of the war.
The detachments were sent north early in January under the leadership of Col. Nagashima and Maj. Sasegawa and numbered 150 men. Only 100 men of each detachment returned.

They explored the Russian positions west of Mukden. They encountered and eluded many forces of Russian cavalry and penetrated Gen. Mist-chenko's line. Then, going northward, they crossed the railroad, cutting the road and the telegraph line during the battle. Afterward they visited Kirin and explored that place, and finally returned to the army north of Kalgan.

Russian Forces In Retreat.

Tokio, April 3.—The following official advises have been received from army headquarters in Manchuria:

"Our scouts advanced toward Haihing and collided with 300 of the enemy's cavalry at Shuangtzu, thirty miles southwest of Seling, on the morning of March 28. The enemy, 4, 000 men strong, retreated to Hailung, leaving 2,000 troopers. There are large stores of cereals at various points between Yingcheng and Sanchongtzu. Yingcheng is thirty-five miles north of Hengcheng. The situation is unchanged in the Changchun and Kirin directions."

Gen. Mistchenko, when he learned of the beginning of the panic during the retreat from Mukden, though an unhealed wound forbade his walking, drove in a carriage to his force and assumed command, which he has since retained, though he is unable to ride over the deeply mired roads, which are beginning to dry.

Gen. Linevitch has ordered the resumption of drills, keeping the soldiers occupied in the daytime, and music in the bivouacs at night. The soldiers are much attached to the new commander on account of his simple, soldierly style of living.

ELECTION TOMORROW.

The voters of Janesville will decide tomorrow as to what shall be the complexion of city government, and the conduct of public affairs for the next twelve months. It is the most important election of the year, because it has to do directly with the pocket-book of the taxpayer and with the moral and business integrity of the city which is his home.

Reforms already established will not perpetuate themselves, and if they are to be continued it can only be done by electing men to positions of trust who are in sympathy with them.

The statement is frequently made that Janesville needs more rigid laws on questions which have to do with public morals. This is not true. What is needed is the disposition and courage to enforce existing laws. When this is done the city will be clean and wholesome.

The Republican party presents to the voters a ticket which represents law and order and a continuance of business reform. It asks for the support of tax payers without regard to politics, believing that the success of the ticket will conserve the best interests of the city.

The Gazette has nothing to say concerning the opposition ticket, and has no mud to throw in any direction. The paper is supporting the republican ticket and is satisfied that the candidates have the best interests of the city at heart. Vote the republican ticket and you will make no mistake.

AN OLEOMARGARINE REVIVAL PROMISED.

The prevalent high price of butter is causing a revival in the marketing of oleomargarine that is giving the inspectors of the Department of Agriculture a period of activity in ferreting out violations of the law, says the Evening Wisconsin. With butter ranging between thirty and forty cents, as has been the case during the past three months, it is natural that the consumers who cannot afford to follow its upward flight should turn to substitutes; and as the law now requires the marketing of oleomargarine without coloring of any kind, there is a tendency to evade it wherever evasion is possible.

The high price of butter has also inspired the oleomargarine trade with fresh hope that with proper effort the present prohibitory tax could be modified. It is said that they are preparing for another campaign against the law, with a proposition in the nature of a compromise that the tax be made four cents instead of ten. With the tax at four cents, there would be an opportunity for the oleomargarine makers to supply the public demand for butter substitutes whenever the real article becomes so scarce that its price amounts to the neighborhood of forty cents.

It would be only just to the poor to modify the law so that an artificially colored butter substitute could be secured by them whenever real butter goes upward beyond their reach.

The Milwaukee paper might have gone into the question more thoroughly and advocated not only the reduction of a ten cent tax on oleomargarine to four cents, but the repeal of the tax entirely. If there is any good reason why this wholesome food product should be taxed at all, it has never appeared on the surface. The masses and not the classes are interested in this legislation, so far as justice is concerned, and Milwaukee, like every other city, has an army of poor people who are deprived of a good substitute for butter to gratify a limited class of butter makers who masquerade under the guise of pure food apostles.

The sale of oleomargarine put in tempting packages and properly labeled should be regarded as legitimate as the sale of calico or any other staple. The man who buys it, wants it and he is not deceived by the belief that he is buying butter. There is room in this country for both butter and a good wholesome substitute, just the same as there is room for silk and cotton. The time will come when public sentiment will demand the repeal of the law which deprives the masses of goods to which they are entitled.

It is reported that the saloon men have combined to beat Mr. Matheson for Mayor. If the report is true there should be a combination of all other interests to elect him. The city can not afford to put itself under the direction of the saloon element.

The voters of the Second ward will consult their own interests by voting for Mr. Peters and George Buchholz.

A vote for Mr. Matheson and the republican ticket, means a vote for good government and a business administration.

The chances are that the legislature will not adjourn until it is time to go home and plow corn.

Does the Governor want his pet measures enacted at this session? Doubtful!

The right to vote is a sacred right, and every man should exercise it tomorrow.

Don't stay away from the polls and then kick about results.

The river is on a rampage, and so are the politicians.

The legislature should be protected from the corrupt lobby by a high board fence.

The ladies of the third ward will know something about politics after tomorrow night.

Wisconsin can hardly afford to go to Texas for advice on railroad legislation.

Will it be Governor, Senator or President La Follette in 1905?

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Journal: There isn't much that you can do except not say the things you think. Later you may be allowed to beat the carpets, but you cannot hope to compete with the hired man at that task, and if you are particularly pleasant you will be allowed to wear our your knees and temper while pulling tacks. If you never removed tacks from a hard wood floor with the back of a case-knife you have not experienced real life, but you are to be congratulated.

Chicago Record Herald: Now come the April foolers with their foolishness, once more. And the army of them's greater than it was before. The tricks they play are funny when on others they are played, But they're always very stupid when a fool's made.

Broadhead Register: An early spring is the earnest hope of all farmers, because of the scarcity of winter food. Many of them are now scrapping and the remnant of their feed piles is getting smaller each day. The yield last year was somewhat light, and an early spring will greatly alleviate the situation. Last year's hay is selling at $12.00 per ton and fodder is quickly taken at $9.50. The indications are now that warm weather has come, and pasture is almost assured in three or four weeks.

Fond du Lac, Commonwealth: Wild ducks by the incubator route, constitute the latest innovation in the game line. The hothouse birds are, in fact, doing so well that sportsmen hope to make them a sort of an offset to the ruthless slaughter, now occasioned at mating season by reason of the spring shooting which the present game laws permit. It is said that an effort will be made to secure an appropriation from the legislature, to run the incubators. It might be cheaper, and would serve the purpose just as well, to amend the laws so they would abolish spring shooting.

The high price of butter has also

A little early yet to make a change from heavy to light underwear, but not too early to get posted, to commence to think about what will be needed, to get out the last summer's packed-aways and learn where they will wear her another season or not.

When It Comes to a question of completeness, to all the asked for things in UNDERWEAR, the stock that this store shows, contains so many desirable styles in garments not to be found in the other stores hereabouts, that it is at once apparent to any woman or man who takes the trouble to make comparisons. SECURED FUNDS TO HELP CAUSE

ONE SALOON KEEPER KNOWN TO HAVE GIVEN $50

WHY SUCH ACTIVITY NOW?

General Outlook Throughout the City on the Eve of the Election

Tomorrow

It has been learned from authority that cannot be doubted that the democratic leaders are making desperate efforts to secure the re-election of Mayor Hutchinson. Not only have the Saloonkeepers' association been reported to have contributed two hundred dollars to the campaign expenses, but individual proprietors have given to the fund needed to defeat Mr. Matheson. The cry of a closed town is being spread industriously by those who have business interests which would be bettered by an open town. The plea that Matheson is father of the Racine street bridge and other measures are also being discussed freely without the consideration that the present mayor in his address to the council recommended that such a bridge be built and that in presenting the resolution that a bridge be built, Mr. Matheson merely voiced the sentiments of his ward constituents and the advice of the mayor.

One Deal Exposed

This morning a certain who asks his name to be kept from the public but who vouches for the truth of the following statement, saw a unique method of collecting campaign funds. Two democrats—one a city official—went into a west side saloon and after a short conversation with the proprietor, the latter wrote a check for fifty dollars payable to the third man. The check was immediately taken to the First National bank and cashed by the party named on the check and the money handed to the city official. When questioned as to why the check was not made payable to the city official direct, the saloon proprietor shrugged his shoulders and smiled wisely. This is one case that can be vouched for, but it is alleged that other liquor men have paid like that.

In the Second and Fifth

In the second and fifth wards the democrats are unusually active. In the second Alderman Connell is making a hard fight for re-election against John Peters, the republican nominee. Between the two men Mr. Peters should win if the voters realize that the best interests of the ward are to be represented. Mr. Connell was elected two years ago as an independent candidate by a small majority and his record as an alderman does not warrant his re-election. In the fifth the democratic factions are divided and a bitter war is being waged on democratic Nominee Dunn. Alderman Schmidley is leading the opposition to his election and it may result in the election of Peterson, the republican nominee.

The Other Wards

There is no fight on in the first ward and in the third the only contest will be for school commissioner. Friends of Mrs. Janet Day are working hard for her and Mr. Cunningham is rallying his friends to the contest. Mr. Cunningham is the republican nominee and should have the united support. In the fourth ward the social democrats are quietly working. Until this spring this party has been very active, but for some reason they have not done so much for their candidates as usual. The fight centers on mayor and all citizens are urged to go to the polls tomorrow and vote for the candidates which will give the city a good business administration. This is the ticket headed by Alexander Matheson for mayor.

Editor Gazette: Just on the eve of an election which means very much to the women of our community and to all having an interest in educational matters. I would, as a personal friend of Albert Salisbury, urge every woman to vote for that excellent gentleman tomorrow. It is a privilege one should heartily grasp; an opportunity, a franchise, that every woman should be proud of. Prof. Salisbury is a giant in educational matters and a man possessed of a beautiful character. Always proud of Jim, Wisconsin will be doubly so when he shall stand at the head of our state educators. It is gratifying to know how spontaneously the woman have come forward in the canvass for Mr. Salisbury, and the interest which has been so generally awakened to place him where he belongs.

Sincerely,
MRS. ADA P. KIMBERLEY,
Honorary State Regent, Daughters of the American Revolution.

J. W. RICHARDSON CHOOSES

J. W. Richardson, after intimating that he would choose to run republican, having received votes in the primaries from both republican and democratic sources, has given the city clerk notice to place his name in the democratic column. The office is unimportant. The county standards have never been tested with those of the state and until they shall be it will be impossible for the city sealer to enforce the law.

Vote for A. E. Matheson for mayor.

Were Scorned by Proud Thief Saturday Night.

Some time Saturday night a large pane of glass in a rear window of Wilbur Carle's Fair store on South River street was shattered to let in a burglar who wrenched the money-drawer in the butcher-shop open and finding twenty copper pennies there, disgustedly left them there to show the proprietor that he was no coin collector of such small dimensions. The evidences of the burglary were first discovered yesterday afternoon. A careful examination convinced Mr. Carle that the thief took nothing of value away with him.

THREE FIRE CALLS SINCE SATURDAY

Kept the Department Busy But Did
No Serious Damage—Trouble in Barber-Shop Today.

Responding to a still alarm coming from the neighborhood of the Myers theatre at 4:15 yesterday morning, the fire department found that the wind was blowing smoke from the chimney of the opera-house down through the open scuttle-hole and into the building. The presence of the smoke in the interior of the structure was responsible for the alarm. At 4:45 the department was again called out to attend a small grass fire on Washington street. At 7:15 this morning gasoline heater blazed up in M. H. Whittaker's North Main street barber-shop and the fuel supply could not be turned off. The department, responding to a call, extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

WHY BE AFRAID

OF MATHESON?

SALOONKEEPERS HAVE RAISED A FUND TO DEFEAT HIM.

RAISES SOME QUESTIONS

Why Are They So Anxious To Elect Hutchinson Mayor, If They Obey the Laws?

To the Editor: It has been announced that the Saloonkeepers' association of this city as appropriated $200 to be used for the purpose of aiding in the re-election of Mayor Hutchinson. The question naturally occurs to one's mind why these people, some of whom are republicans, should be so interested in the candidacy of Mr. Hutchinson. They are licensed to do business in the city, the law imposing certain dues and restrictions. So long as they observe the law, no one can interfere with them, no matter how Puritanical he may be in his views. That the saloonkeepers have been treated well and practically permitted to run their business to suit themselves during the past few years, must be admitted. It must be they now fear, in case of Mr. Hutchinson's defeat, that they will be obliged to observe the laws. If this is so, perhaps it might be well to defeat Mr. Hutchinson and apply the same rule to saloonkeepers as to other business men. The ordinary mind can conceive no reason why the people who vend intoxicating liquors should be immune from the observance of legal restrictions. If the laws pertaining to saloonkeepers are not practicable or just, repeat them. So long as they are laws, however, they should be observed. It would be refreshing, indeed, to the citizens of Janesville to wake up some morning and find a gentleman in the mayor's office who would hew to the line in all things and recognize no favored class. of 11 to 4 Yesterday—Game.

Next Sunday.

In their first game this season, a practice contest yesterday, the Red Sox baseball team were winners by a score of 11 to 4 from "Luz" Braves. Hill of the victorious nine negotiated a number of stops at his position of shortstop in a most admirable way and Pitcher Hensley of the same team succeeded in retiring a number from the batter's box. The line-up was as follows:

Red Sox Braves

Next Sunday another game will be played by the same two teams. The management of the Red Sox have not yet arranged any games for this year and will probably not play their initial schedule contest for a month yet.

ROCK RIVER HAS BEGUN TO REcede

Two-Inch and a Quarter Fall Since Saturday Was Noted Just Before
Heavy Storm This Afternoon.

On Saturday, April 1, Rock river rose to a point two inches above the maximum high water mark of 1904, reached on March 31 of that year.

It remained at that level throughout the day but began to fall at night. Measurements taken in the basement of Hall & Sayers' jewelry store this morning showed that the stream had fallen two inches since Saturday and at one this afternoon it had fallen another quarter-inch. W. P. Sayles in commenting on the high water this afternoon said that a Mrs. Lewis of Janesville, who is located at the edge of the Horicon marsh, visited in the city last week Monday and stated to him that the snow banks along the sidewalks there were as high as her shoulders. A day or two before as she was watching her husband, busy with the snow-shovel, he had suddenly shouted: "Here's somebody's derby!" A moment later, when he had shoveled the snow away from the supposed hat, he found it to be the top of the hitching post. This serves to explain where some of the water is coming from. The heavy rain and gale-storm this afternoon may serve to check the receding stream and increase its volume again.

THOUGHT SOMEONE HAD HURLED ROCK

Sounds of Crashing Glass Coming

From Room in Grand Hotel

Caused Excitement.

Saturday evening was a night crowded with all sorts of taleful occurrences. In the small hours preceding daybreak a window in Landlord Sweeney's apartments at the Grand hotel crashed and occupants of adjoining rooms rushed to the scene, certain from the character of the noise that someone had hurled a rock through the glass. A large piece was broken out of the corner of one of the panes and the bell-boy who was dispatched to investigate the matter returned out of breath to say that he had seen a man sliding along the building just under the fire-escape. The room was unoccupied at the time and the boulder supposed to have been aimed to disturb the possible tenant's slumber could not be located yesterday morning. Subsequent examination seemed to confirm the theory that the window had been raised and the rope had broken, allowing it to fall with sufficient force to break the glass.

FOOTPADS MASHED WATCH WITH HEELS

And Gave Other Evidence That They Were New at the Business—W.
P. Sayles Found Timepiece.

There were no new developments this morning in Saturday evening's hold-up affair save the recovery of the empty pocket-book which the bold quartette took from Thomas Kennedy and the finding on the grass near the scene of the encounter of the remnants of the gold watch which the footpads had taken from him. W. P. Sayles came upon the timepiece, ground into a shapeless mass, evidently with the heel of a shoe. What the motive of this act might have been is a mystery.

The highwaymen executed their two hold-ups on two widely separated streets in quick succession—hardly thirty minutes apart. Just before eight o'clock Thomas Kennedy had left the vicinity of the West Side theatre and was on his way up Court street to his home at 107 Caroline when four men fell in behind him. As he neared the residence of Frank Blodgett two of the four pushed on ahead of him, then suddenly wheeled about, and demanded his valuables. When the victim showed a disposition to regard the matter as a hoax, the oldest of the four drew a revolver and another laid hands on him.

Mr. Hutchinson's defeat, that they will be obliged to observe the laws. If this is so, perhaps it might be well to defeat Mr. Hutchinson and apply the same rule to saloonkeepers as to other business men. SALISBURY FEELS
HE WILL WIN OUT

Whitewater Normal Professor Considers His Chances Excellent.

Albert Salisbury, nonpartisan candidate for state superintendent of schools, says of his chances:

"Fully double as many women will vote at the election Tuesday as at any time in this state's history. I am confident of this from the reports I am receiving daily in my offices.

"I feel assured that I shall be elected. My nomination papers were signed by upwards of 22,000 voters which shows the interest taken in my candidacy, and from every part of the state. Superior and Ashland are the only large cities where I am doubtful of carrying out a victory.

"Throughout the campaign I have abstained from making any promises of whatever kind. I shall go into the office untrammeled and unburdened. The campaign has been conducted in a quiet, dignified manner, and mostly through the mails. I have been to but a few places in the state in the interest of my candidacy, but the mails have been taxed to the limit, and I think with great success. I may safely say that I have the support of almost every school superintendent and a majority of the teachers, but the interest taken by the women teachers has been particularly gratifying.

"My campaign has been nonpartisan and nonfactional. I can not say for that reason how individual members of several parties will vote, but I am certain that the bulk will vote for me. So far as the social democrats in this state are supporting any candidate I think it is not saying too much that such support is mine."

LABOR NOTES.

Coke workers in the Pennsylvania regions, 30,000 in number, have secured a ten per cent increase in wages.

The Journeyman Tailors Union of America will hold its next convention in Buffalo, N. Y., August, 1905.

The British Labor Gazette says that the downward tendency in wages in Great Britain, which began in 1901, continued throughout 1904, the amount of the fall measured in weekly loss of wages being about the same as in 1903, but less than two-thirds of the amount in 1902 or 1901. These four years followed a period of rising wages, and the amount lost since the beginning of 1903 is much less than the amount gained during the preceding years of rising wages, and is not much in excess of the abnormal amount of increase obtained in 1900.

It is reported that during the next two months, 500 Japanese section men will arrive in Cheyenne, Wyoming from San Francisco, and will Read this letter which Mr. E. D. Chaffin, of Elkhorn, Ky., writes us, dated June 21, 1904: "I have used one bottle of Seven Barks and can truthfully say that it has done more good than anything I have ever taken. I suffered for years with Dyspepsia, and nothing helped me until I tried your Seven Barks."

The curative value of a medicine can be determined only by application. If troubled with Dyspepsia, you're making a big mistake if you don't try Seven Barks. No matter how many other medicines you have taken, you have no right to say that Seven Barks won't cure you—it certainly won't cure you "in the bottle," you've got to reach the seat of the disorder, there's no other way to effect a cure. Seven Barks is a simple vegetable remedy, the dose is small and it is pleasant to take. It's all it's claimed to be, or we wouldn't sell it. We make more profit on other Dyspepsia cures, but people want Seven Barks and won't take anything else. If it didn't cure, we wouldn't agree to hand back 50 cents for the "empty bottle," besides running the risk of losing a good, steady customer. We sell it with the distinct understanding: No cure, no pay."

LACKS CHURCH FOR 130 YEARS

Pennsylvania Town Dedicates Its First House of Worship.

Braddock, Pa., April 3.—Wallsborough, though 130 years old and having 6,000 inhabitants, has just dedicated its first church. For twenty-seven years Wallsborough has been the eastern terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad's service, and when the Philadelphia and Greensburg turnpike was built a century and a quarter ago, it was the relay station between Greensburg and Pittsburgh. It has never, up to this time, had even a mission and circuit preaching was unknown there. Its citizens stayed home on Sunday up to sixteen months ago, when Rev. I. P. Truxal of Braddock went among the neglected railroad men and started a mission of the United Brethren church. The church to-day has 160 members. A pretty $12,000 brick and stone church was consecrated yesterday.

BAT MASTERSON
ROASTS GOTHAM

GUN CARRYING IS UNIVERSAL

Says All Sorts of People Are Armed With Revolvers, Which Would Be Useless If Their Owners Got in a Tight Place.

New York, April 3.—"I wonder what makes everybody in such a hurry here?" said "Bat" Masterson, now a deputy United States marshal for the southern district of New York, as he sat in a big armchair in the office of the Delavan hotel, where he lives. "A man runs half a block to catch a crowded car when there is another with plenty of room in it half a block behind. He's not really in a hurry; he only thinks he is."

"If a man comes to New York to study Americans and American life he makes a real mistake. There are a few Americans here; when you do meet them they are as fine people as you can find anywhere, but you don't meet them in Broadway. If you want to find real Americans you must go to the country. New York is not an American city."

Couldn't Use Pistols.

"How do you expect to like your job in New York?" asked a reporter. "Oh, I'm no stranger in New York. I have been living here for a year, so I guess I know New York as well as you do."

"You have been quoted as having expressed surprise at the number of men here who carry pistols. Is it true that so many do?"

"Go into any night restaurant and you will see the lip pocket of every Tom, Dick and Harry bulging with a little toy gun that he couldn't use if he had to. Those chaps have no right to carry pistols, and no occasion to, either. And the silly part of it is that the way they carry them proves they don't know how to use them."

Do Things Better in West.

"If one of them tried to pull his gun in scrap he would have to tear the linings out of his clothes before he would set it out. Anybody can see the number of pistols that are worn here; the police know all about them, but they don't interfere. They have too much else to do."

"Out in the west we would not let men carry pistols as they do here. In Dodge City, if the deputy sheriff learned that a man had a gun, he would follow him into a saloon and make him give it up. Here no one interferes."

"Do you consider New York generally speaking a well policed city?"

Graft in Police Force.

"Well policed? I should say not. How can it be under such a system? The police force is rotten with 'graft' and politics. A man pays to get on the police force and he regards it as a legitimate thing to make what he can out of it. A district leader rewards his political friends with jobs on the force and they have to do him favors. This system goes all through the department, from the inspectors down to the patrolmen."

Reporters Are Fakers.

"Do you know former Supt. Thomas Barnes?"

"I do not. I never met him. This illustrates one of the 'fakes' that have been written about me. It has been told how Barnes brought me on from the west to guard George Gould."

"Now, I never saw Barnes, and I never saw George Gould, and I never acted as bodyguard to him or anybody else. You have some great fakers on the police force and he regards it as a legitimate thing to make what he can out of it. A district leader rewards his political friends with jobs on the force and they have to do him favors. This system goes all through the department, from the inspectors down to the patrolmen."

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By
WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

Madame Bizard then seeing Renee for the first time, rushed to her, weeping violently. This action disconcerted her lord, for he advanced and, grasping her roughly by the shoulder, pulled her away, giving her a rude shove that sent her rolling on the floor. He then seized her by the hair and pulled her up into a sitting posture, crying brutally. "Get up or you will fare worse." The poor woman did not seem to think this treatment at all unusual and meekly did his bidding. "Take mademoiselle to her lodge and serve her wants," was the next demand; so, beckoning Renee to follow her, she led her out.

They passed to the adjoining house, which had been hastily prepared for its new occupant. Some attempts had been made at clearing the place, a large number of skins and furs having been spread about. Renee's companion was silent until they had entered. After casting a backward glance to see that they were not followed, she fell on her knees and burst into tears. Renee, who pitied her forlorn condition and remembered her kindness to her when she first arrived at Quebec, strove to soothe her, and the kindly, womanly sympathy thus displayed had its effect, for soon the tear-stained face was raised and a sad smile lighted up her features.

"Ah! mademoiselle," she murmured, "you are so good to pity an unfortunate castaway like myself. I have slept deeply, but I have been cruelly punished. Since seeing you I have had time to reflect and realize how great a wrong-doer I have been. Many a night have I lain awake in my misery, and thought of all the happiness I might have had, but which I thrust aside. You can see the misery of my fate without telling you. However, it is your future that troubles me, for rather than see you in his power I would bury a knife in his hateful breast. Tell me how you happen to be here?"

Renee then rapidly sketched the events that had led up to their journey and the adventures encountered since then. As she told of Toniti's efforts at the time of their shipwreck, Madame Bizard's eyes glowed and a faint tinge of color returned to her cheeks.

"How brave he is, and how noble! My love told me that he was good and worthy!"

"Your love!" exclaimed Renee.

"Yes, my love, for I will confess it to you, mademoiselle—I loved him. It was my insane love that drove me to tempt him to the very act to which the comte yielded. But he was strong, and rebuked me, shaming me for the thought."

"But you told me—"

"Yes, but I lied. My heart was full of bitterness at finding him so much better than I; for his teaching me that a man's honor was even stronger than a woman's. It was the desperate memory of his refusal of my suggestion to fly with me that drove me mad, and made the society of my husband, yourself, and all who were good and pure a torment, and was the goad that urged me to the step I took. But my remorse has been bitter."

"And his wife and child abandoned in Paris?" eagerly asked Renee, as she clutched the woman by the arm, her breath waiting on her reply.

"More lies. I could find nothing bad enough to say about him. I hated him for the deep humiliation he had caused me, and loved him all the time for his nobility of heart. He spoke of one in France whom he adored. I would have given my right arm to have heard him speak of me with that same feeling and reverence in his tones. Now all is done, and it is too late for repentance. A weary life of servitude Akiesko alone of the three prisoners had neither hope nor fear. He faced the dawn of the day of suffering with the stoicism of his race. He knew that he would be sacrificed first, in order to whet the appetite of the people for blood so that the torture of Toniti would be a lesson of greater enjoyment to this captor. Help, unless it came within a very few hours, could not rescue him, even if it were to arrive before Toniti's turn came. A feeling akin to sorrow invaded his savage heart at the thought of the disappointment and injury that would come to La Salle from the loss of Toniti. A feeling of pity for the white girl, whose days thereafter would be a death in life, then followed. Last of all, the hatred of his tribe against his enemies surged across his mind, obliterating all other feelings, and his thoughts were filled with plans how to endure his pains bravely and give defiance to them until the very last.

Thus passed the weary hours of darkness to the three captives. The darkness was astir at dawn, and the sound of voices and din of preparation for the day's festivities smote ominously upon their ears. Food was served to each at breakfast time. After noon they were summoned to the beginning of the santurnalia of bestial cruelty.

During the time I lost about one-half of my hair. I began to feel itchy, as the disease had run so long, but soon discovered your medicine was doing me good, and continued to take it. I used seven bottles, when I was completely cured, not having a single spot on my body, which before was almost completely covered. F. C. NORFOLK, 1017 Hackberry St., Ottawa, Ia.

The head, feet and hands are usually the parts affected, though the disease appears on other parts of the body. While external applications allay the itching and burning temporarily, it is the acid thrown off by the blood that causes the irritation and eruptions upon the skin. The acids must be neutralized and the system cleansed of all humors and poisons before the cure is permanent. S. S. S. is guaranteed entirely free of Potash, Arsenic and other minerals. multicolored shells about his neck and a smaller one placed like a wreath or crown about his head. He was greeted by a friendly shout from the waiting crowd. The procession marched about the edges of the throng, so that all could catch a glimpse of the condemned. Finally they conducted him to a log placed in the center of the open space and he was seated. Food was set before him, sausages, squashes, venison and fruit. As his wrists were bound, one of the clerks was deputed to feed him.

"Here, my nephew," he said gravely and in the kindest tones, "eat of this food your friends have prepared for you. It will give you strength. Eat and have no fear, for no one is doing you any harm. Behold thyself now among thy kindred and thy friends."

When this portion of the repast was finished, a dog which had been placed in a kettle near by and boiled, was produced, and being cut into pieces of convenient size, was presented to the prisoner to taste. Upon his having done so the remains of his feast were removed. His hands were loosened and he was invited to sing. A hush fell upon the multitude as he arose to give utterance to his death-song. Straight and firm he stood with outstretched arms, from which the folds of beaver skin fell in graceful lines. His head was proudly raised, his eyes looking above the crowd eastward toward the land of his birth. His voice, now quavering in a strange, weird minor cadence, rising and falling, lingered on the words with a pathetic tenderness, now full and strong in sonorous monotone, rapidly delivered, penetrated to the farthest ranks of his foes.

"I see afar the wigwams of my people. The smoke rises from a thousand camp-fires and the woods are filled with the countless moccasin prints of the hunters. They creep here and there through the forests. The deer and bear fall in multitudes before them. Where are the waters dark with fish but yesterday? The streams are there, but the fish have gone, for the Mohegans do; it is ours to torture. But as to this white chief, hear me. Some have accused me of being still a Frenchman; learn this, then: I know this man. He is a friend of the great Onontio at Quebec whose soldiers drove your braves back and shot them where they fled. His death would be a greater blow to Onontio than the capture of a dozen settlements. He it is who built the house beside the Great Falls, who sent men there to steal your skins and murder your braves when they resisted. Here is your revenge. I am your brother: I am no longer white; let this prisoner die. Take him, I give him to you: the white woman, however, belongs to me."

A murmur of assent went round. The prisoner's fate was sealed.

CHAPTER XXI.

WHEREIN A RATTLE IS FOUGHT AND AKIESKO COMES OFF VICTORIOUS.

The prisoners slept little that night. Both Renee and Toniti had undergone a nervous excitement during the day sufficient to keep every fiber tingling; he at the discovery of her love for him, she upon learning the truth from the lips of Madame Bizard. Now that the heat of his encounter with Miron had subsided, Toniti fell into a slough of despair. Escape seemed impossible. Renee's fate became more hideous now that he knew her secret. Even the satisfaction of dying together was denied them. Renee was happy, rejoicing in the restoration to his proper place of the lover she had vainly sought to forget; untroubled of the terrible ordeals the future might have for her; believing vaguely that the discovery of her lover's faithfulness was not for naught; that a means of escape would be accorded to them.

Akiesko alone of the three prisoners had neither hope nor fear. He faced the dawn of the day of suffering with the stoicism of his race. He knew that he would be sacrificed first, in order to whet the appetite of the people for blood so that the torture of Toniti would be a lesson of greater enjoyment to this captor. After noon they were summoned to the beginning of the santurnalia of bestial cruelty.

It is an open place in the center of the town where gathered the Indians, who seated themselves in an elongated circle, down the center of which were piled at intervals seven brush heaps ready for lighting. Equidistant from each one a small scaffold some six feet from the ground had been built. On one of them Miron had reserved a seat, one on each side of himself for Renee and Toniti, so situated that they would be witnesses of the ensuing scene. He greeted them with a sardonically smile, and wished them all manner of pleasure during the coming hours. Toniti's hands were securely bound, but his feet were free.

They were scarcely settled when an opening in the throng on the opposite side was made and through it Akiesko was led, with every mark of respect and attention from those attending him. His escort consisted of some 30 or 40 of the young men of the tribe, who advanced singing and dancing. The prisoner strode along haughtily in their midst, clad in a magnificent beaver robe, with a string of polished

Big result for the money: a want ad.

Letter to Mr. James Hadden, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: It's an old saying: the best advertisement is a pleased customer.

It happens to us continually in this way: A man buys Devoe for his house—he has painted it once in three years or a dog's age, and thinks he knows what he wants—buys 20 gallons, and has 10 left.

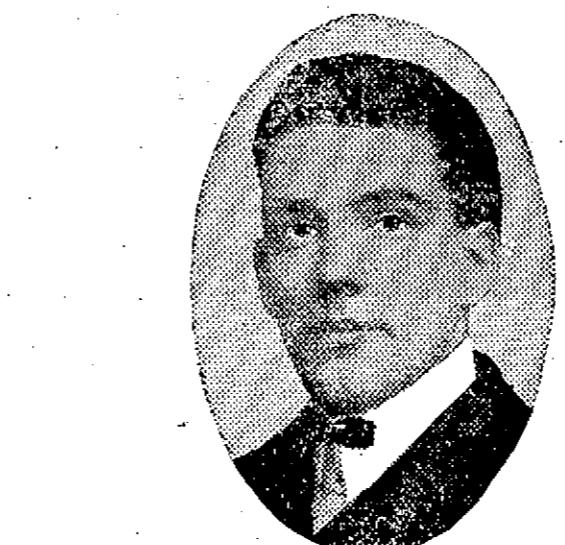

He sees right off that 20 Devoe is as much as 30 of anything else. He likes that; it comes quick; it is a surprise; and he tells of it. The best advertisement is a pleased customer.

Three years roll around. There isn't a sign that his house needs paint; he don't paint it. Next year he didn't paint it. This comes slow; it is a surprise; but he has got used to it. Still the best advertisement is a pleased customer. Yours truly,

JOHN S. LONG.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the Great Neurologist, Warns Americans Who Neglect Their Nerves.

"In busy centers the number of deaths due to nervous causes has increased twenty per cent in forty years. One-fourth of the deaths in cities to-day are from nervous diseases."—Dr. S. Weir Mitchell.

The clean, rich nerve-force that was behind the health and happiness of thousands upon thousands is literally burning itself up like the dry wick of an empty lamp. It is the "Strenuous Life," with a vengeance.

Can men who go to their work in the morning tired and with lax spirits give to their own affairs the electric touch of confidence and power upon which success depends?

Can mothers worn out and nervous, plodding dully or ill-tempered through the routine of homekeeping, bring into the family life that precious spirit of hopefulness and happiness without which the word "home" seems a mockery?

When you feel exhausted—when you grow tired sooner than you should—when you lose patience with the irritating cares of daily life—when you feel discouraged—when you feel that your hopes and ambitions are not as high as they used to be—when you spend a sleepless night—when you get up almost as weary as when you went to bed—when you are worried.

These are all signs that your nerve forces are burning low.

Neglect the nerves and they will make you feel this neglect in many ways, they control all of the organs of the body and must be kept healthy and strong to do their work properly, tired nerves cannot keep the organs of the body working in that harmony which is essential to real health.

This is why Paine's Celery Compound is able to bring health in so many different forms. Paine's Celery Compound feeds and nourishes the nerves. It makes pure, rich blood, a clean active liver, a stomach that acts quietly and strongly upon all the food that is given to it, bowels that throw away promptly and surely all the ashes from life's engine room.

It makes the heart beat true and evenly, it makes the brain clear and vigorous.

The Nerve Force does this all, and Paine's Celery Compound makes the Nerve Force.

Best of all it makes that buoyant life-spirit, the thrill of health, that is the secret of happiness and the keynote of individual success.

Without Nerve Force there can be no health at all—no success—no joy in living.

John S. Long's case is simply one of thousands upon thousands. An average case and an object lesson to the average person.

"For nervousness and stomach troubles Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine. I was almost a physical wreck when I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound, and now I am as healthy as any man in the world, and I owe it all to Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle I took helped me wonderfully, and by the time the second was used I was a well man, and I can cheerfully recommend it to any one as being the best medicine I have ever used."

--John S. Long, Ballard, Wash.

Try Paine's Celery Compound to-day. It braces you up at once.

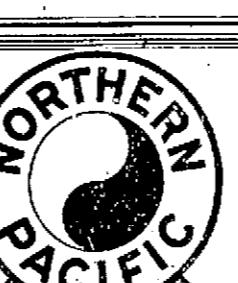

Take two days' treatment. See how much better you feel. See how much more easily the trials roll away.

For over 18 years Paine's Celery Compound has been the most universally used nerve vitalizer and tonic in the world.

Remember this—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this country has ever known, Prof. E. E. Phelps, of Dartmouth University. All reputable druggists recommend and sell Paine's Celery Compound.
